Testimonial from a Parent

During the 2010 academic year, Alison, a normally strong tenth-grade student received a “C” in Geometry. As the year progressed, her math grades continued to drop and soon turned into “D’s”. Desperate to find a solution that would help boost her daughter’s math mark and overall confidence, Alison’s mother, Marjory, sought out a tutoring program for her daughter. Marjory turned to SchoolTutoring Academy’s online tutoring programs to provide the academic tutoring and guidance that Alison needed. Over the next few months, with Alison’s dedication to her tutoring sessions and the guidance of SchoolTutoring’s Academic Directors, Alison succeeded in reversing the downward trend in her performance; she gained more confidence in her abilities, and has recently received an “A” on her last math test!

Since joining SchoolTutoring Academy, our daughter has made significant progress and received an “A” on her last math test. It has certainly been a “bumpy road with Alison” as she continued to make similar mistakes over and over again and always second-guessed herself. I regularly sought the counsel of my SchoolTutoring Academic Director and we engaged in many conversations regarding how to reduce the errors and mistakes that Alison made. Our Academic Director also had many conferences with Alison’s tutor on how to improve Alison’s confidence - this really reassured me about the seriousness with which the Academic Director took my situation. He continued to communicate with me throughout the term on the progress being made.

“Alison succeeded in reversing the downward trend in her performance; she gained more confidence in her abilities and has recently received an “A” on her last math test!”
